Maria is a qualified Level 3 instructor trainer and has been fundamental in facilitating the start of the transition to the new national standard for everyone here at Cycle Confident. Her commitment to high quality teaching and her integrity when it comes to the new qualification and the value that cycle training brings to individuals is truly admirable.

Maria inspires other instructors to value what they do and raises the bar in terms of the high quality of delivery that we see across London. She supports instructors to improve and does this in a way that is empowering and effective.

Feedback from co-instructor: ‘Thanks to Maria this week was utterly useful to feel more confident with the processes when leading a school course. Maria provided professional support, stepped in when it was necessary, but at the same time let me make my own decisions. She gave me feedback that helps me to improve my teaching skills, she also gave the opportunity to reflect on my own work.’

This is also true of her impact directly with trainees in schools. Her manner is encouraging and inspiring, supporting children to see themselves as capable and keen to succeed. Maria is invested in the outcomes for each individual trainee and creates a supportive bond with each trainee that helps them to feel valued.
