Joe is a hugely experienced instructor with a calm, professional and friendly manner, allowing everyone involved to learn and develop in a positive way. He is passionate about removing barriers to cycling, whether teaching or promoting best practice within the community.

Bikeability Levels 1, 2 & 3

Historically, secondary schools are a low-demand age group. Joe has nurtured relationships, resulting in increased training year on year. He delivers in over 70% of Bromley's secondary schools. Some schools having 80+ applicants, mainly Level 3.

Learn to Ride for Adults and Children

Testimonials attest to Joe's encouraging and positive outlook as a trainer. Joe has described how many adults, who believed they'd missed their learning window and would never ride, find themselves "becoming a child again" as they ecstatically begin to ride one their own. Numerous children have been trained, as well, including some who lacked confidence, had disabilities or experienced home circumstances that made it difficult to learn, such as the triplets whose dad simply needed a hand with teaching.

Escorted Rides to Work and School

Overcoming the nervousness of riding in traffic can be difficult, but Joe's dedication and advice puts cyclists at ease. After working out a route, Joe accompanies cyclists from their homes to work or school, ensuring their safety and giving support toward making them confident independent commuters.

Police Stops

Joe participates in local Police Education Days. He uses these opportunities to engage the public and promote Bikeability and bike safety.

Bike Maintenance Courses and Dr Bike

Qualified bike mechanic Joe runs Dr Bike sessions and delivers Bike Maintenance Courses to enable cyclists to carry out the basics on their own bikes. Throughout these interventions, he is helpful and encouraging, with a knack for putting people at ease so tasks don't feel so daunting.

3. Other Experience

Charity Work

Joe continually provides a positive role model to other cyclists. For younger riders, he organised the Juniors' outings for charity Ordinary2Extraordinary (O2e). He accompanied the participants, offering support and advice along the way (see attachment 2c).

Another O2e charity ride Joe organised consisted of a group of families traveling to Ypres with a focus on the history of WWI. Three families, with their five children (aged 9-15) participated in a 90-mile trip spanning two days. WWI sites were visited along the way, culminating in four of the children laying a wreath at the Menin Gate as part of the Last Post Ceremony. A total of £4,000 was raised for O2e.

In addition, Joe has participated in many charity rides over the years, personally raising approximately £7,000. These challenges have primarily consisted of 250-mile rides that have taken place throughout Northern Europe to places such as Cologne, Paris and Amsterdam.

Youth Offending Team Bike Maintenance

Joe was part of the team who supported Bromley's Youth Offending Team improve their Ofsted rating by delivering a series of bike maintenance workshops with young offenders. Although it was an exceptionally challenging audience for them, Joe and the team did have some results and were able to spark some interest from some of the clients, one of whom went on to get a job with a local bike shop.

Infrastructure Design

Joe liaises with Bromley's Traffic Engineers and Planners regarding designs for new cycle routes in the borough. He often introduces them to issues they, as non-cyclists, had not thought of.
